

Clara, Assistant Sales Manager on a Sandwich Course

“I am currently in my final year of a Master’s degree in Business Engineering at the Management School in Strasbourg. I got the opportunity to join Les Grands Chais de France through a sandwich course contract during my first year of the Bachelor’s degree. As soon as I started in the company, my colleagues made me feel like I was a proper employee. That immediately gave me the motivation to work for this company where I have been given responsibilities in spite of my young age and lack of experience.

The training policy at Les Grands Chais de France is really attractive for young people like me because the company definitely makes an effort to recruit and train young people and above all employ them as staff members after their studies. The company offers real career openings both in France and on the international scene and invests in accompanying young people in their studies and supervising them when they make their first steps in working life. I have been with the company for three years now and I have already had the opportunity to progress. Today I am currently preparing to go and work abroad - for Les Grands Chais de France, of course.”
